Mission Statement

Australian Commercial Aviation Collection

2008

The primary collection aim is preservation of memorabilia and collectable objects including day-to-day operational objects from Australia's Past Commercial Airlines.

The secondary collection aim is preservation of memorabilia and collectable objects including day-to-day operational objects from existing Australian Airlines.

The third collection aim is to acquire objects that do not directly fall into the above categories that are related to aviation and are of such historic or cultural value that should be acquired, researched and displayed for the benefit of the global community.

To operate as private collector adopting accepted professional standards for the ownership of cultural property and improving these standards on an on-going basis whist maintaining a non profit stance

To display these objects on the Internet and at a later date or via admission to an Interpretative Centre based in a building in accordance to our set policies.

To publicly acknowledge donations of objects on our web site and in displays, if possible, in accordance to the policies of the organisation.

To preserve the objects collected in accordance with our policies and guidelines within knowledge and budget constraints
